HOUSE APPROVES NAVAL EXPANSION MEASURE

DOMINATION OF EUROPE IS SEEN AS HITLER GOAL

If He Uses Discretion He May Succeed, In View Of Noted Writer

HOLDING HIS GAIN SOMETHING ELSE

Fuehrer's Attitude Toward Religion Weak Spot In His Armor

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer

NEW YORK, March 21.—One of the questions which appears to be uppermost in the minds of most people is whether any force, short of concerted military intervention, is likely to keep Dictator Adolf Hitler from goose-stepping straight into fulfillment of his plan for domination of Europe.

This query has been encountered continually by the writer ever since the Nazi chieftain's amazing annexation of Austria, unimpeded by anything stronger than pleas and protests. The latest occasion was during a discussion of foreign affairs at the largely-attended annual meeting of member newspapers of the Associated Press at Columbus, Ohio, over the weekend.

May Come Close to Goal
There is a rapidly growing feeling that if Hitler proceeds with as much discretion as he did in the case of Austria, and doesn't openly challenge the powers to violent combat, he may come close to his goal.

The faster he can work, the better his chances, and he indicated in his Berlin speech last Friday that he needed only four years "to complete the tasks ahead in the 'Greater Reich'."

Whether Nazidom, under Hitler or anybody else, would be able to maintain any such domination as he seeks is an entirely different proposition.

Leaders of democracy on both sides of the Atlantic hold that the dictatorship will defeat themselves in due course through opposition by their peoples, unless there is a decided change of policies.

The argument is that in this advanced day no civilized people will endure indefinitely complete suppression of individual liberty such as exists in the totalitarian states. They may stand for absolute regimentation for a time in the hope of escaping from desperate financial and economic difficulties, but in the end they will turn against the bondage.

Religious Interference Factor
Particularly dangerous is interference with the rights of the individual to worship as he pleases. Our pilgrim fathers came to America to escape religious persecution. Even savages will fight for the right to worship their heathen gods after their own fashion.

The weakest spot in Hitler's armor is the attitude of the Nazi party towards the Christian religions. The attempts being made in Germany to "Nazify" both the Protestant and Catholic churches are dangerous in the extreme to the existence of the party.

Hitler's absorption of the Catholic country of Austria, and his evident intention to take over Czechoslovakia with its host of church goers, raises the vital question of whether he intends to alter his Nazi policy towards Christianity.

There have been indications recently that he has seen the writing

POLICE REPORT FEW ACCIDENTS

Spring Weather Brings Out Motorists; Five Die In State

Hundreds of motorists, drawn out of doors by the fine spring weather Sunday, on the eve of the first day of spring, traversed the district highways with few collisions reported. It was a good start for the season.

However, at 9 p. m. Saturday a machine driven by R. C. Bagley of Pittsburgh, failed to negotiate a curve on Route 45 at Rocky Rest, five miles south of Salem, and tumbled over a 15-foot embankment.

Child Is Injured
Bagley escaped without a scratch but his eight-year old daughter, Lillian, received a severe bruise to her right leg.

The only mishap investigated by state highway patrolmen Sunday occurred about 9:50 p. m. on Route 62 in front of Twee Crest inn, north of here.

In that crash a car driven by Ann Harkins of Cleveland Heights struck an automobile operated by Frank Pierce of 692 N. Ellsworth ave., traveling toward Salem.

The occupants of both vehicles were unhurt, although the impact caused considerable damage to both machines, state patrolmen said.

Five Die In State
Five deaths were reported in the state as a result of weekend traffic.

J. F. O'Callaghan 51, of Cleveland, was killed when his auto failed to make a curve and crashed into another car in front of the Lorain country club.

Stephen Lullejian, six, was running across the street to a candy store when an auto struck and killed him at Cleveland.

Velora Nelson, 12, was running after a younger sister when she collided with a taxicab and died.

An auto which plunged into the Red Cedar river near Lansing, Mich., carried Mrs. Francis Deming, 65, of Granville, O., to her death. State trooper rescued three other persons from the car.

Mrs. Mary Kenney, 74, of Cincinnati, died of injuries suffered in an auto collision near St. Petersburg, Fla.

Wheatley In Capital

LISBON, March 21.—Robert S. Wheatley of Saineville, former county engineer, went to Columbus today to be present at quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court, through which his attorneys seek to unseat Lloyd C. Kirk, Lisbon, now holding the office of county engineer.

Wheatley will try to win back the office, which he held earlier this year, on the grounds his political foe now has the office in violation of the four-year term provision.

Snapped By Death

He went to the railroad tracks with Schoolmate Lawrence Fiesler to take a head-on shot of an oncoming train.

The train rushed by and Fiesler, busy taking a side view snapshot, heard a scream. Carter had failed to leap aside in time.

THREE JURORS ARE SEATED IN ROGERS TRIAL

Alleged Slayer Of Milkman Faces First Degree Murder Count

MT. UNION CLASS "SITS IN" TODAY

Parents, Brother Of Slain Man To Take Witness Stand Tomorrow

LISBON, March 21.—Curious spectators crowded the courtroom this morning when Burl Rogers, neatly dressed in a dark grey suit, sat attentively while the jury, which is to try him on a first degree murder charge, was being selected.

Open Case Tomorrow
The choosing of the jury is expected to take the most of the day, with the state opening its case tomorrow morning.

Three jurors had been definitely seated at noon today. They are F. Board of East Rochester, Charles McDonald of Rogers and W. J. Venable of Salem.

Included in the audience this morning were 20 students of the criminology class of Mt. Union college. The students will return again Wednesday, along with their teacher, Prof. Oreen Reudi.

Rogers, who sat with one handcuff dangling from his right wrist, is accused of murdering Clarence Dickey, East Liverpool milkman, Christmas morning in 1935.

Escaped, Then Recaptured
The defendant, indicted in the first degree, escaped from the county jail, but was recaptured in East Liverpool a month ago.

The brother and parents of the slain man, Frank Dickey and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dickey, are expected to take the witness stand tomorrow. Frank Dickey was shot in the arm at the time he and his brother were attacked.

Early this morning Attys. Frank Hoover and Samuel Chertoff of East Liverpool, counsel for the defense, moved the jury venire be dismissed on the grounds that the clerk of courts was not present when the venire was drawn.

The court overruled this motion, explaining that the presence of a deputy at the time made the action legal.

Debate Rebuilding Of Burned Steamer

CLEVELAND, March 21.—Officials investigated the charred hull of the Steamship City of Buffalo today to determine whether the well known Great Lakes passenger carrier could be rebuilt.

Flames swept the 356-foot steamer as she was moored to her dock here Sunday, shooting 100 feet above her fourth deck. Floors of the upper three decks crashed, leaving a shell which settled to rest on the bottom of her slip.

Tugs towed the huge steamer Seandee from her mooring across the slip with only blistered sides. The City of Erie, also moored at the same dock, was undamaged.

The City of Buffalo was one of the so-called "honeymoon ships" owned by the Cleveland & Buffalo Transit Co., making over-night trips between Cleveland and Buffalo. It had been in service 30 years.

Fire Chief James E. Granger estimated damage at $700,000. O. A. Tomlinson, president of the transit company, said $360,000 insurance was carried on the boat.

Philip Schwartz, general manager, said rebuilding would depend on whether the steel hull and engines were damaged beyond use.

Couple Accused Of Abandoning Child

TOLEDO, March 21.—A young Millersburg couple arrested in a hotel here were returned to Millersburg last night to face charges of abandoning their five months old daughter.

Detective Orrin Gonis and Michael Rowan said they arrested the couple, Mr. and Mrs. James Root, on the request of H. R. Weiss, Holmes county sheriff. Root is 22 and his wife, Alecy, 20.

ITALIAN LIBYAN TROOPS RETURN

Withdraw As Concession To British In Peace Move

ROME, March 21.—The first detachment of Italian troops withdrawn from Libya as a concession to Britain came home today, and informed sources predicted that a British-Italian friendship accord would be concluded by Saturday.

Almost 4,000 officers and men which had helped garrison Italy's north African colony disembarked at Naples.

Informed persons said the accord would provide for British support of recognition for Premier Mussolini's Ethiopian conquest through the League of Nations and withdrawal of all Italian combatants from the Spanish Civil war through the 27-nation nonintervention committee.

These sources said Italy would discontinue construction of certain fortifications in Eritrea which might threaten Red sea traffic and therefore menace the Suez canal "lifeline" of the British empire.

Both nations would exchange Mediterranean and Red sea military information.

The accord also would include an agreement on the boundary between Ethiopia and British Kenya. Italy expected the accord to open the way for long term loans from British private capital for development of the Italian empire.

Informed sources said the final serious hurdle involved the Balearic islands, in the Mediterranean off Spain. The largest, Mallorca, is an air and naval base for the Spanish insurgents.

It was said Italy had agreed to withdraw her soldiers from the Balearics but insisted on a provision for reentering if her interests were threatened. Britain, probably because of French pressure, insisted on an agreement for absolute withdrawal and it was understood Italy finally yielded.

ARAGON DRIVE NEAR CATALAN

Insurgents At Standstill Today; Consolidate For Advance On Torrevella

HENDAYE, FRANCE, AT THE SPANISH FRONTIER, March 21.—The insurgents' great Aragon offensive was at a standstill today just short of the Catalan border. Advance bases were being consolidated for a new drive in the Torrevella sector.

An attack launched from the Alcaniz-Alcaniz line yesterday gave the insurgents the village of Codenera, 10 miles southeast of Alcaniz, but they failed to take Torrevella, just south of Codenera.

Stiffened government resistance along a new defense line established in the mountain terrain outside Torrevella stopped the insurgents' forward movement, a Barcelona communiqué said.

The insurgents, however, said they halted to establish advance bases adequate for the mass of men participating in the drive toward the Mediterranean coast. Gen. Francisco Franco's army has been estimated at between 100,000 and 150,000 men.

Thousands of government reinforcements have been poured into the new Torrevella line to prevent the insurgents, now scarcely 40 miles from the coast, from smashing through and dismembering government Spain.

Insurgent bombing planes continued their raids on coastal cities, striking yesterday at Tarragona, Reus, Benicarlo and Sagunto. Government advisors said the damage was light.

Former Policeman Goes To His Death

BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 21.—Martin Sullivan, in the December of life, died sobbing on this first day of spring in Pennsylvania's electric chair at Rockview penitentiary here.

The 74-year-old former patrolman at Duquesne, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh, was executed for the slaying of five neighbors he accused of responsibility for his arrest on a charge of molesting a girl.

He was pronounced dead at 12:35 a. m. (E. S. T.) after one contact of 2,000 volts—the oldest person, according to prison records to be executed in this state and the 269th to die in the electric chair.

The pudgy Sullivan was convicted of slaying Mrs. Laura Bacon, a social worker, and pleaded guilty to shooting Joseph Benda and his wife, Helen, and Mrs. Mary Vukelj and her son, Milan.

He boasted that he was "not afraid to die" and led a jury over the path of death he followed on Dec. 17, 1936, on his door-to-door tour of "revenge".

Former Government Aid Dies In N. York

NEW YORK, March 21.—Byron R. Newton, writer and an assistant secretary of the treasury in the Woodrow Wilson administration, died at his home last night following a paralytic stroke. He was 76.

Newton, who left newspaper work to enter politics, was a war correspondent for the Associated Press during the Spanish-American conflict.

He covered the first experimental airplane flight of the Wright brothers in Kitty Hawk, N. C., and established the first newspaper aeronautical department in the United States in the old New York Herald. He also served as a political correspondent at Albany and Washington.

Newton directed the publicity for Wilson's presidential campaign in 1912. He was tax commissioner of Queens at his death.

Buckley introduced an ordinance to clamp down on the use of slot machines in the city.

46 New Warships, 950 Planes To Be Built Under Plan

Billion-Dollar Proposal Now Goes to Senate; Armament Needed, Says Roosevelt, Because of Increased Activity Abroad

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The house approved over-whelmingly today the administration's billion-dollar naval expansion bill. Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote for passage was 291 to 100.

Final passage came after defeat of a Republican attempt to send the bill back to the house naval committee with instructions to eliminate the provision for three new battleships. The bill now goes to the senate.

The measure authorizes construction of 46 new warships, 22 auxiliary vessels and 950 airplanes which President Roosevelt said were needed "specifically and solely because of the piling up of additional land and sea armaments in other countries."

The recommitment motion, offered by Representative Church (R-Ill.), a member of the naval committee who has opposed the program since its introduction, was defeated by a vote announced by Speaker Bankhead as 276 to 114.

His Reorganization
WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senator King (D-Utah) told the senate today that passage of the administration's reorganization bill would mean that "expectations of balancing the budget and lifting the heavy tax burden must be abandoned."

The broad reorganization powers which would be granted to the President under terms of the pending measure would permit "bureaucratic government to become more powerful and therefore more autocratic," King asserted.

He declared he believed the proposed reorganization would be followed by an increase in government employees and a consequent increase in expenditures.

The senate finance committee heard from a spokesman for the United States chamber of commerce that the present tax laws were responsible for much unemployment.

Ellsworth C. Alvord, tax expert for the chamber, said "industry must be unshackled."

He predicted that unless the tax system was revised the government's revenue would decline by $1,000,000,000 a year and its relief costs would increase to $3,000,000,000 a year.

SCOTT TO FACE BRITISH COURT

Philadelphia Lawyer Accused of Attempt to Take His Daughters From Former Wife

NAASAU, Bahamas, March 21.—Forrester Scott, Philadelphia lawyer and big game hunter, and Stanley Scott, an aviator, faced a British court today on charges growing out of an alleged attempt to seize Scott's two daughters and whisk them back to the United States by seaplane.

Magistrate Osborne Bancroft will investigate charges of attempted kidnapping and determine if the case should be remanded to the attorney general for presentation to the supreme court. The magistrate has authority to dismiss the charges if he feels the police have not made a case.

He will, however, deal summarily with charges against Scott of assaulting the children's nurse, Miss Helen Smith of Wilmington, Del., and carrying an unlicensed revolver. The two men have been held in the Naassau prison since Wednesday when Detective Captain Fredrick George Lancaster accused them of attempting to seize Eva and Zoe Scott, 6 and 3, respectively.

Henry Clark Boden, said before the hearing she expected to "get British justice."

A. F. Adderly, Negro attorney, represents the two men. He indicated the principal defense would be a Pennsylvania court order giving Scott part-time custody of his daughters. Mrs. Boden, a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alexis J. DuPont of Delaware, indicated she would testify to a Wilmington, Del., decree which gave her absolute control of the children.

AUSTRIAN LESSON

Americans have been preoccupied with the momentous action of the third reich in taking over the government of Austria. Details have followed one another so rapidly in the press there has been no time for thoughtful reflection.

That reflection—and it should follow the actual event—should comprise at the very least these points:

1. That the emotional reaction of Americans, which has taken the form of "positive indignation" against what is seen as an affront to their morality, is not trustworthy as a starting place for thought. It is not enough to protest against what has happened. It is necessary to inquire why it happened and how it can be kept from happening elsewhere.

2. Austria's independence before the Nazi coup was nominal—so nominal, in fact, that as long ago as the abortive Nazi coup in 1934 it was being maintained only under the protection of Premier Mussolini, dictator of Italy.

Americans can learn a lesson from Austria. They can learn that economic desperation is the best possible environment for the growth of authoritarianism in politics. Liberty becomes less important to the masses than bread, when there is insufficient bread.

Authoritarians offer bread in exchange for liberty. If they fail to keep their part of the bargain, the people have no recourse, except revolution. Austrians, confronted with the possibility of revolution, apparently chose Adolf Hitler, instead. They traded the Schuschnigg type of dictatorship for the Nazi type of dictatorship. They seemingly concluded they had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Americans have not traded their liberty for bread, but they are not immune to the consequences of such a deal if they ever become desperate enough to make it.

ON THE HUMAN SIDE

The fact that two important new deal agencies are racked by internal disputes at the moment points up this simple lesson:

The Tennessee Valley Authority and the bituminous coal commission represent attempts to use the power of central government to improve the lot of large numbers of citizens. The agencies come closer to embodying the spirit of the new deal than any others in existence.

Both of them had to be manned before they could become effective. In the case of TVA there was an apparent attempt to name commissioners who would be above the ordinary level of political appointees. In the case of the coal commission, the members were chosen under the patronage system.

Results have not been good in either case. The More Abundant Life for the masses has been made to wait on More Capable Administrators of the More Abundant Life. It's like a rocket ship. Inventors claim they can build a ship which would soar vast distances into space, possibly far enough to reach another planet. But until they can find men able to survive such an experience, the results will be disappointing.

Administration, as Benjamin Franklin concluded early in this government's experiments with a More Abundant Life, is the thing which ultimately determines whether government is good or bad. Administration is a matter of men, not laws.

DEPT. OF VITAL STATISTICS

Along with the naval expansion bill and bills for expanding this and that, the Rankin bill liberalizing pensions for widows and dependents of World War veterans has been placed on the calendar for action during this session of congress.

On last June 30 there were 598,510 former soldiers on the U. S. pension roll and 243,427 widows. During the preceding 12 months $396,030,052 had been spent in their behalf.

There were still 7,031 Civil War soldiers and nurses and 76,131 widows. There were 175,361 Spanish American War soldiers and nurses, 50,292 widows. The total number of World War soldiers admitted to hospital up to last June 30 was 929,468.

The total pension benefits to soldiers of all wars, peacetime soldiers and dependents was $12,883,189,850 up to last June 30. The Rankin bill alone, if passed, will add no less than $1,651,000 a year to the cost of veterans administration.

These figures seem to belong somehow to a discussion of billion dollar naval expansion bills and of the next great war, which is mentioned frequently these days as something which can't be averted.

WAITING FOR A CALL

John McCormack's willingness to introduce harmony to Irish politics, which he announced on Rudy Vallee's radio program the night of St. Patrick's day, has this much in its favor:

Ireland, never has tried an Irish tenor before, nor has it ever tried a patriot who has not been toughened and embittered by previous political combat.

Mr. McCormack, if he gets "the call," says he will do what he can, provided Eamon de Valera becomes prime minister, thereby leaving the presidency open to a successor. It looks like a gracious gesture of patriotism, and it might turn out to be an important one.

A man who has spent so much of his life singing might do more to Irish politics than it could do for him.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

OSTEOMYELITIS

"OSTEOMYELITIS" is another one of the great big words used by the medical profession. It is applied to an infection of a bone, any one of our many bones. Like other infections, this can be traced to some germ which has found its way into the body.

During the World war osteomyelitis was one of the common complications of gunshot wounds and other war injuries. Of course, it is met in civil life, even among children.

If the disease is neglected, it may lead to serious and permanent deformity.

It may seem strange that such an infection should be rather common in childhood. But when one considers how frequently active children bruise, wound and injure themselves, it is no wonder this complication occurs. Indeed, it may follow a simple scratch or trifling blow. There may be no history of an injury so slight as to be completely overlooked.

Germ Carried

Germ is carried from one part of the body to another. Originating in enlarged and infected tonsils, bad teeth or some other infected structure, they finally reach the bony tissues.

The sufferer from osteomyelitis first has chills and high fever. The bone becomes tender to the touch and painful. The nearby joints may become swollen and painful.

The child may appear to have no more than a vague ache or sense of discomfort in the arms or legs. Let me warn you of the danger associated with vague pains. Too often such children are neglected. The parent may think the symptom is merely an evidence of "growing pains." But, as I have told you many times, there is no such thing as "growing pains." Growth does not produce pain. If there really is pain, consult your doctor.

The modern doctor has many advantages denied the old timers. For example, by means of the X-ray it is now possible accurately to determine whether there is infection in the injured bone. If osteomyelitis is present, the picture will show definite haziness, indicating positively an involvement of the bone.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. "EXTRA FARE"

by
Edna Robb

SYNOPSIS

Jaxie Cameron, lovely young newspaper columnist, travels west aboard the Big Chief, extra-fare train, in search of copy for "The Friendly Corner". Tommy Ackerman, staff photographer for the Star-tribune, sees her off, taking a flashlight photograph for the next morning's edition as Jaxie waves farewell from the observation platform. Soon she meets Kirby Elliott, tall, gray-eyed and humorous. Inside the car Mose, the porter, tries to pacify Mrs. Sanders, a demanding elderly woman who shares Section 6 with Elliott and explains travel accommodations to Jake Weatherby, gaunt mid-western farmer unused to luxury trains. An unassuming little man in khaki sits reading. His heavy duffle bags rattle when they are moved, as if they contained miner's tools. When the Dade babies begin to cry, Jaxie provides a drawing room for them.

CHAPTER VI

"Good night, Miss Cameron, and thank you again so much," Carrie Dade entered the little room as if she had been granted entrance to the queen's apartments in a royal palace, with awe and gratitude and a peaceful hope enveloped her.

Just then the drummer in upper 8 entered the smoker. "Well, I guess I'm ready to climb the ladder to the hayloft, George," he addressed Mose, in the manner of all drummers addressing all porters.

"Yes, suh, ah'll git de laddah right away." He turned about and hesitated, beckoned the man into the corridor. "Say, Boss, I was jes' thinkin'," he winked toward the swaying, buttoned curtains of lower 9, "how would you all lak to shift yo'e't over into upper 7? Dat lady wid de two kids has taken de drawin' room, and dat leaves de lower empty. How 'bout it, suh?"

"I'm on, George," laughed the salesman. "Suits me, all right."

"Yes, suh, ah'll hab it ready foh yo' in a jiffy, suh."

This Mose, the all-wise manager, shifted his misfit charges into more convenient niches to the best of his ability; as the misfits of life often have to be shifted about after things get started. And Jaxie, happy in the thought of a weary mother's comfort, slipped in between the cool, taupe sheets in her sheer silk pajamas, stretched her bare, white arms above her head in the smoke-scented, swaying darkness and rejoiced that life was good and living better. Gazing into the dim, soft, rushing world outside, her memory conjured dark laughing blue eyes that were set between a flashing smile and a high smooth forehead, surrounded by severely brushed black hair.

Just across the narrow aisle, under the low, convex ceiling of upper 6, those same dark eyes stared at the dimly lighted wall above the swaying curtains and their owner wished mightily for an open window; but his heart lifted and beat a little faster at the memory of a voice, husky-sweet, and the way two brown eyes had looked into his.

The Big Chief, extra-fare train, hurtled and crashed on into the night—shrieking, hissing and clicking over the taut, shining rails which awaited its thunderous passing. Within its long, slim, sinuous coils it carried as many destinies as there were passengers aboard. All striving for the same goal. All reaching for the same prizes in life; money, power, supremacy, luxury and ease—the ambitious ones—and how so the others, if they could acquire them without being too ambitious.

Some would attain them naturally, some wrest them from life by sheer force, some acquire them dishonestly; many never would possess them. But for a few short, swift-moving days, these cross currents of life melted and mingled and hesitated briefly before they flowed on into other currents which they would join. Car 74X, next to the observation car, held probably the most oddly assorted specimens of human nature ever assembled together in so small a space, persons whose fates were destined to become entangled more than a brief three-day journey warranted.

Why were these people so intent on reaching their destination at the given hour of seven-thirty on a given Monday morning. Why had each of them paid ten dollars extra to have six hours of time—time of which all the world and life are made and yet so precious to these people that it represented this monetary value. Their reasons were as varied as their characters, their possessions and their objectives.

The retiring, unobtrusive little man in section one had asked Mose to make up his berth early, and had retired like the proverbial Arab who folds his tent and slips softly away over shifting wastes of sand. His thoughts were projected into such ages as are beyond the scope of the minds of ordinary men and were concerned primarily with the solving of the riddle of the universe. He was little occupied with present whims and indulgences, with personal glorification and satisfaction. And he traveled extra fare because his expense account and his honorable station required it.

Not so, however, with his exact antithesis in the section across the aisle. Clarice Cole's every thought and action were concentrated upon those very mundane achievements which the retiring little man scorned. Her goal had not wavered through all the months of the past two years while she had waited tables at Kenny's restaurant and saved every penny over a meager allowance for existence toward this trip to Hollywood.

Ever since she was thirteen and people began to compare her vivid beauty with that of the screen stars, Clarice had known what she was going to do. She had decided upon Kenny's when she applied for work as a waitress, because Kenny's was in the heart of the downtown Loop, where prosperous, roving-eyed business men lunched abundantly and leisurely and paid tips grandly for the kind of flattering service they required. Clarice could afford to be that ambitious. Her gold-glittering hair attracted the eye as all gold lures, her own lapis lazuli blue eyes, shaded with deep curling fringes, promised vague delights, and the sinuous grace of her slim body in the trim green linen uniform and little fagot-edged white apron never quite escaped a man's memory.

Clarice—who had become Emma then—had become a waitress at Kenny's without experience; an unprecedented occurrence in the history of Kenny's where expert service was promised every patron. But the manager was an enterprising promoter and recognized a good thing when he saw it. Emma Cole was apprenticed to the head waitress on half pay, and as soon as she could swing a tray without spilling coffee and take six different orders at one time without scrambling them, she was given full pay—and changed her name.

What an atrocious name Emma Cole would be for a movie star! It would have to be changed later, so it might as well be sooner, she decided. This alteration had involved many hours of conjecture and speculation. She analyzed every requirement. The name must be short enough to be readily spoken and remembered, pronounced with ease, attractive to the eye in script and print, and euphonious. Clarice seemed to her to answer all these requirements. Clarice she became.

Never had she deviated from the goal which she had set for herself. Generous tips might be left under platter for persistent porters, roving eyes might gleam hopefully for patient intervals, and persuasive voices might murmur urgently; but Clarice advanced steadily in the direction which she had set for herself—and eluded them all. Her pseudonym had not been selected to adorn the nameplate under a bell in some marble-walled apartment foyer and waste its euphony on the covetous lips of smug adventurers. It was destined to blaze in incandescent glory over theater marquees and reverberate from the lips of admiring millions.

Theater Attractions

Billy and Bobby Mauch in title roles of "Penrod and His Twin Brother", at the Grand tonight and Tuesday.

Two good pictures make up the Monday-Tuesday double bill at the Grand theater.

Goes To College

The story is that of Ted Crosley, reigning Hollywood star, who becomes fed up with pictures and decides to go to college, much to the horror of his associates. His manager, hoping to nip Ted's plan in the bud, informs the college of Ted's true identity, and the dean, hoping to capitalize on the presence of a movie star in the student body, unwittingly makes Ted's life a nightmare.

The other film is "Penrod and His Twin Brother" which brings to the screen both of the brilliant 13-year-old Mauch twins who made such a tremendous hit in "The Prince and the Pauper," instead of merely Billy who was alone in the first Penrod story.

Jackie Morrow, Too

Once again, playing Penrod's parents, are Frank Craven and Spring Byington. Jackie Morrow, the little menace, once more portrays Penrod's chief boy enemy. That amusing little 10-year-old Religion is a big thing in the lives of the newly absorbed people of Austria. Religious liberty was one of the fundamental laws of the republic.

All Are Religious

Some 6,000,000 persons, or close to 91 per cent of the population of that little country, are Catholics. Most of the rest are religious more than 295,000 being Protestants and 192,000 Jews.

Out of Czechoslovakia's fifteen millions, about 11,000,000 are Catholics, more than a million are Protestants, and other religions have a considerable following.

This means a total of 62,000,000 persons who for nearly five years under Nazi rule have been fighting for religious freedom. He is a very daring or very foolish man who challenges such a power.

It's Just 'Pft'

CINCINNATI—Here for a lecture, Sinclair Lewis took a hand in the problem of American slang by declaring that the derivative term "phfft" shouldn't be spelled that way at all.

"No sir," declaimed the novelist.

Mrs. Coolidge at the Theatre

Among the fashionables who attended the opening of the Cole Porter musical comedy, "You Never Know," at a Boston theatre, was Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, widow of the former President. She is pictured with Frank Mansfield in the lobby of the playhouse.

"It's 'p-f-t'—just plain p-f-t." "Pft, pft," suggested a reporter, "but what of the other forms, 'pfft' or 'phut' have they no place?" "Pft, pft," pifted the Nobel prize winner. "It's 'p-f-t'."

And just to make it more convincing, Lewis quoted from the Russian:

"You pronounce it just like the Russian word 'p-y-i-f-c-h-t'—and with the lower lip to upper teeth he illustrated:

"Like this—'Pft!'"

Mt. Union Geology Student Traces Prehistoric Animal Tracks In Paint

ALLIANCE — Combination of cabinet making craftsmanship and scientific deduction on the part of a Canton freshman has resulted in an unusual addition to the teaching equipment of Mt. Union college geology department.

The new piece of equipment is the achievement of Robert Lee Untch, a member of the class in general geology taught by Dr. John R. Cooper.

The device consists, essentially, of a neatly turned and finished cabinet containing three glass plates covering a miniature clay reproduction of a large geological specimen that has been on display in front of geology classes here for several years.

Interesting Exhibit

The student's handiwork serves the purpose of illustrating what is represented on the surface of the original rock specimen, which was discovered on a Mahoning county farm and first studied by Prof. G. F. Lamb, head of the Mt. Union geology department. It is a slab of conglomeratic rock originally coming from the lowest formation in the coal measure series of strata.

Most interesting feature on the specimen is the maze of animal tracks, some of five toes, others of four toes and some indicating a dragging tail. Untch studied these tracks until he had discerned just what movements had been made by the animal responsible for them. He found that they should be divided into three series, representing three visits to the spot by the animal, which had four toed front feet and five toed hind feet. So he traced the fossil markings with black paint onto three glass plates.

What Took Place

Viewing a small replica of the rock through all three plates, the same effect is brought out as with the complex original. By looking at the reproduction through one glass at a time in proper succession, however, a clear conception is obtained of what took place when this animal, a member of the earliest order of amphibians, was walking the wet pebbly beach of the bayou that extended into this section during early Carboniferous time millions of years ago.

"You're known as a great Camel smoker, Mr. Shaw. Are they really so different from other cigarettes?"

"Yes, Ben, I think that Camels are a lot different. That's why they're the racing drivers' favorite cigarette. You see, a cigarette has to have something out of the ordinary to score such a hit with fellows like us. As I always say, there are so many things that mean a great deal in smoking. One big angle that carries weight with me is that Camels agree with me! I've smoked a good many thousands of Camels in the past 10 years, so I know that from experience."

"NOODLING" out a problem in auto design. And getting in a bit of smoking, doing it. "Camel's the mild cigarette," Shaw says.

SHAW is saying how important healthy nerves are to a racing car driver. "The fact that Camels don't get on my nerves scores a big hit with me," he points out.

according to the observation of tobacco planters themselves

"I'VE BEEN planting tobacco for twenty years," says Harry C. King, a successful grower. "Camel bought the choice lots of my last tobacco crop—paid more for my best leaf tobacco. So I know they use finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes. That's one mighty good reason why my cigarette is Camel."

THOMAS MIDDLETON and his twin brother James have been growing tobacco for 14 years. "The Camel people bought up my best tobacco last year," Tom Middleton says. "They have for 12 years. When anyone talks about finer, more expensive tobaccos, that means Camels to me. I smoke 'em—my brother smokes 'em—and so do most of us around here who grow and know tobacco."

"DOWN AT THE tobacco warehouse they told me they'd never seen finer tobacco than my last crop," says J. E. Jenkins, veteran tobacco grower. "Camel bought all the top grades. It just shows that the Camel people make sure to get the choice lots of tobacco. I prefer Camels every time. I know what those finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camel cigarettes mean to smokers."

Home's Outdoor Surroundings Need As Much Thought As Interior Decoration

Modern Machinery, Methods, Workmanship Build Business for Salem's Paris Cleaners

Plant Designed Especially To Meet Requirements Of Trade

Now let's see, what are the facts regarding dry cleaning, with its many claims as made by this or that company or agency.

In the first place we have the Paris Cleaners on the Benton road. They are the only Salem company devoted exclusively to dry cleaning who own and operate their completely equipped plant. No work is sent out of town and competent employees are retained to render every service.

The plant itself is modern in every way, designed to meet the most exact dry cleaning requirements, constructed of brick with walls almost all windows to give daylight effect, so important for inspecting garments.

The ventilation, another important feature, has been engineered into the construction, a sanitary health precaution of immense value to its several local employees.

The dry cleaning machinery was bought new, after much study by

Paris Cleaners' Benton Road Plant

L. C. Price, the manager, whose 20 odd years of experience, plus the valued judgment of the Dry Cleaners association, decided what was the best and most modern.

With such equipment, and experience, no plant, in or out of the city could do better work, yet perhaps of still greater importance is the responsibility of the organization and the fact the owner can be interviewed, without delay, at any time, should such an occasion arise.

Salem is fortunate indeed to have such an organization within its boundaries, furnishing work to local men and women, work that to a considerable extent comes to Salem from neighboring cities and small towns.

THEY IDENTIFY HOME OWNER

Damascus Nurseries Reveal Facts On Landscaping Art

It is very seldom that the home builder gives the same careful consideration and thought to the outdoor surroundings that is given to the interior of the home.

This striking and 'truthful' thought was advanced today by the Damascus Nurseries, located on Route 62, six miles west of Salem, seven miles east of Alliance.

"Only when it is brought to his attention," the nurseries firm continues, "through some striking incident does the average man realize that the exterior appointments of the home stand for what he himself is. If these be cheap and slovenly, he is judged to his prejudice, but if the arrangement is orderly and artistic he is credited accordingly."

The Damascus company knows whereof it speaks inasmuch as it has been in the business since 1900 and now has 125 acres devoted to the growing of stock.

Of Varied Application

"Of all the arts of design none are so varied in application as that pertaining to landscape gardening. Every feature has surroundings which influence the treatment best suited to its needs. Surely a more careful consideration will lend enjoyment and artistic excellence to our properties that should not be overlooked."

"Our landscape department will help you work out these problems and cooperate with you. Only persons of much experience know how vast a subject is landscape designing, calling for artistic ability, creative capacity, knowledge of architecture and familiarity with plant materials—the last-named being most important, though often least recognized."

"Landscape work attempted without the most careful consideration in all the details is never very satisfactory and often entails large additional expenditures for omission and revision."

"The proper floral adornment is an important question, but not the only one. There are walks, drives and garden details such as fountains, pools, features, etc., to consider. To make most of the situation every tree and shrub should bear some definite relation to the architectural features. A plan will show you these existing features and specify others to meet these demands. Your personal note always being embodied into the scheme ensures you the taste and refinement you desire."

Why Not Discuss Plans?

"A discussion of such plans will give you definite ideas of the possibilities of your grounds and we shall be glad to submit plans and estimates, there being no obligation connected with this service, and no charge if plant material is purchased from us."

"Turning the planting season our trucks frequently pass most points within a radius of 30 miles from our nurseries. Deliveries will be made at no additional charge."

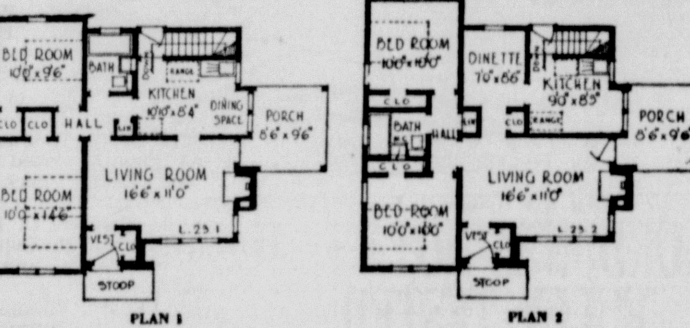

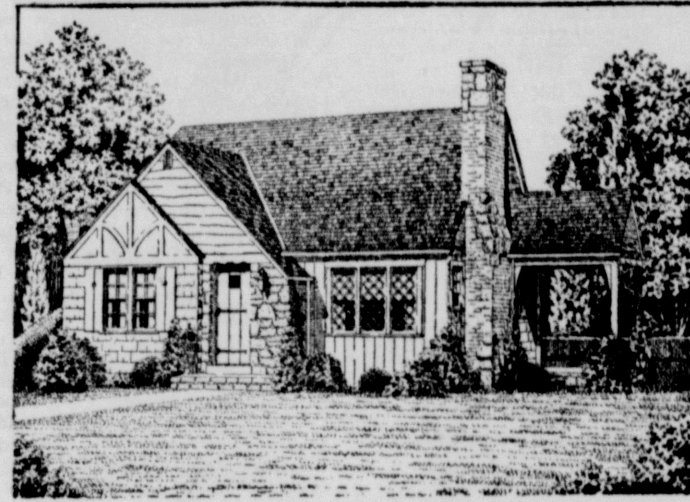

"For the convenience of our customers we can supply an experienced and responsible planting service. These same experienced men are available during the summer and winter to do your pruning, a very essential operation for the appearance and well-being of any successful planting."

"The West Landscape Service is far more complete than that ordinarily found. There are many landscape designers who will furnish you with planting plans, but you must then find a nursery which will supply the plant material, and get someone to execute the work. Competent planters are very hard to secure—resulting in divided responsibilities, each one blaming the other for mistakes that may occur. This divided responsibility is eliminated when you have our complete service.

Saving In Price

"We endeavor to supply you with plants which are specimen representatives of their various families. Being growers of quality stock and selling direct to you, we make you a price based on the cost of production, often at a great saving."

"We endeavor to deliver in first class condition so that with proper after-care losses will be reduced to a minimum. However, all stock that fails to grow during the first growing season will be re-supplied without charge."

"Should the customer desire, we will work out a plan whereby payments may be extended over a period of several months."

Denies Decision

COLUMBUS, March 21.—The Ohio State Journal said today that the six-member board of college professors which has been investigating the state highway department setup since last October might suggest replacing Highway Director John J. Jaster, Jr., with a three-man highway commission.

Prof. Clyde T. Morris of Ohio State university, chairman of the board, denied that a decision on any recommendations had been reached.

UPTURN IS SEEN IN CAR MARKET

A marked upturn in the market for both new and used cars is reported by Ernest S. Dowd, president of Dowd-Feder, Inc., Cleveland Chrysler distributor, beginning about January 15. As Cleveland, a city with a large number of small factories dependent on the automotive and steel industries for their orders, was very hard hit by the business recession, Dowd interprets this as a sign that a similar upturn may be expected nationally.

"We have no used car problem, due to the fact that we have adjusted our prices to present day market conditions," says Dowd. "In fact, we have advertised both on our showroom windows and in the papers for used cars. This has served a double purpose, in that it has stimulated both new and used car activity. One of the most important results has been to restore the confidence of the prospective purchaser."

What Held It Up

"There has been a feeling that dealers were so overstocked with used cars that they were in no position to make deals advantageous to the customer. There has been no incentive to shop around for new cars because the prospect felt that he was being asked to pay more for a car than he could get elsewhere. This undoubtedly has held up many sales."

"Recently I did some shopping around Cleveland dealers and I found that there was considerable floor activity, which had been lacking for some weeks. The public is finding out that it still can do business with auto dealers on good terms. Thus, those who have money to spend — and there are to visit their showrooms before active prospects."

"The same is true of the used car market. People are finding out that they can make exceptionally fine deals for these cars. The assortments of first-class merchandise are large enough to permit a wide range of selections. And the prices are remarkably low. The smart buyers are aware that used car prices are bound to go up with more active buying and are making their purchases now."

Feels Worst Is Over

"So far as the Cleveland district is concerned, we feel that the worst is over. It may take a few weeks to get business back to anything like normal, but the fact that the public has shaken off its fear complex is very encouraging."

The Smith garage, E. Third st., Salem dealer for Chrysler and Plymouth, has, like the Cleveland organization, extended every effort to make it easy to buy both new and used cars and it will be well worth while for the prospective purchaser to visit their showrooms before acting.

Alliance Team Hits 3281 In Inter-City Bowling Tournament

SALEM KEGLERS CHALK UP GOOD MARKS IN MEET

Loudon Brothers Total 1222 Score In Two-Man Event

New leaders stood at the top of the standings in the 27th annual Inter-City Bowling association tournament today as a result of the heaviest firing the tourney has witnessed since its opening March 1.

Teams and individuals participating in the tournament Saturday and Sunday, among them, Salem entrants, blasted the maples at the Recreation alleys in Alliance for new high scores in the five-man, doubles and singles events.

The Salem keglers were not fortunate enough to bound into first place in any event, but they did turn in some fairly good scores, several of which are practically certain to land in the money.

Leading the onslaught on the gleaming pins was the New Way Nite Club team of Alliance, which hammered out a sensational 3261 score to take the lead in the Class A division of the five-man event.

The New Ways, led by Tom Jones, who hit an even 700, combined games of 1093, 1938 and 1150 in marking up the score which not only took over first place but also shattered the tournament's all-time record of 3107.

E. A. Youngs of Willard boosted himself into first place in the singles with a splendid 713 score made on games of 278, 245 and 190. The team of C. Henderson and P. Robinson of Bellefontaine moved into the lead in the doubles with 1277.

Of the three Salem teams which rolled in the booster division of the five-man event, the Salem News turned in the best score, 2619. This mark stands a chance of finishing in the money in the booster class. The two other Salem teams were below 2600, Grate Recreation hitting 2564 and Grate Economy V-8's, 2568.

The Loudon brothers, Paul and Al, paced the local contingent in the doubles, chalking up a 1222 score which is sure to be among the top-rankers when the prizes are handed out.

Al Loudon showed the way for his brother by blasting out games of 240, 236 and 202 for a 678 series. Paul sandwiched a neat 267 game between other games of 136 and 139 for a 544 total.

The Salem doubles teams of Clyde Miller and Bob Tubbs and Earl Grate and Jim Jackson also turned in scores which stand a good chance of getting a small amount of prize money.

Miller and Tubbs had 1180 with Miller contributing heavily to this score by hitting games of 169, 216 and 256 for a 641 total. Grate and Jackson recorded 1145 with Grate leading the performance on a 597 series.

Only two Salem bowlers, Mayor George Harroff and Mike Hutter, competed in the singles. Harroff set himself in for a slice of the prize money by hitting 638 on games of 229, 235 and 204. Hutter had 541.

YOUNGER DEAN BROTHER SAYS ARM ALL RIGHT

Frankie Frisch Dubious, But Paul Says He's Back In Shape

By GAYLE TALBOT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—It looks a little like Paul Dean might be back in there fogging them across for the St. Louis Cardinals within another month. Important tidings to seven other National league clubs.

Paul, younger and slightly less volatile brother of the great Diz, has been off the firing line for the better part of two seasons with a "catch" in his money arm. It's gone now, he says. Manager Frankie Frisch is dubious, but hopes Dafy is right.

"I'm almost sure she's all right," said Paul. "I haven't felt even a twinge so far, and I've been cutting loose pretty hard. There isn't much stuff on it yet, but that will come."

"Boy, wouldn't it be great if old Diz and I got going together again. I wonder how Bill Terry would like that. We're going to do it, too. That Diz is better and smarter than he ever was."

Paul has got himself into surprisingly good shape. A few months ago he weighed 220 pounds, and now he's down to 190. During 1934 and '35 when he was turning in 19 victories a season his weight was around 185.

The exemplary behavior of the brothers Dean thus far is making Frisch look years younger. There's an improved spirit in the Card camp since Diz calmed down, and everybody is hoping it will last.

Sammy Baugh is the club's big new attraction. Spectators at the exhibition games now point out the little football star instead of the Deans and Joe Medwick and Pepper Martin.

Frisch really thinks Sammy has the makings.

"All he needs is to learn to hit," said the old Fordham flash. "He's a better player right now than I was at the same stage. As far as his fielding is concerned, he could step into third base on any club. He simply hasn't been taught how to hit properly, but it won't take him long to pick that up. It's just a question of showing him how to use his feet at the plate."

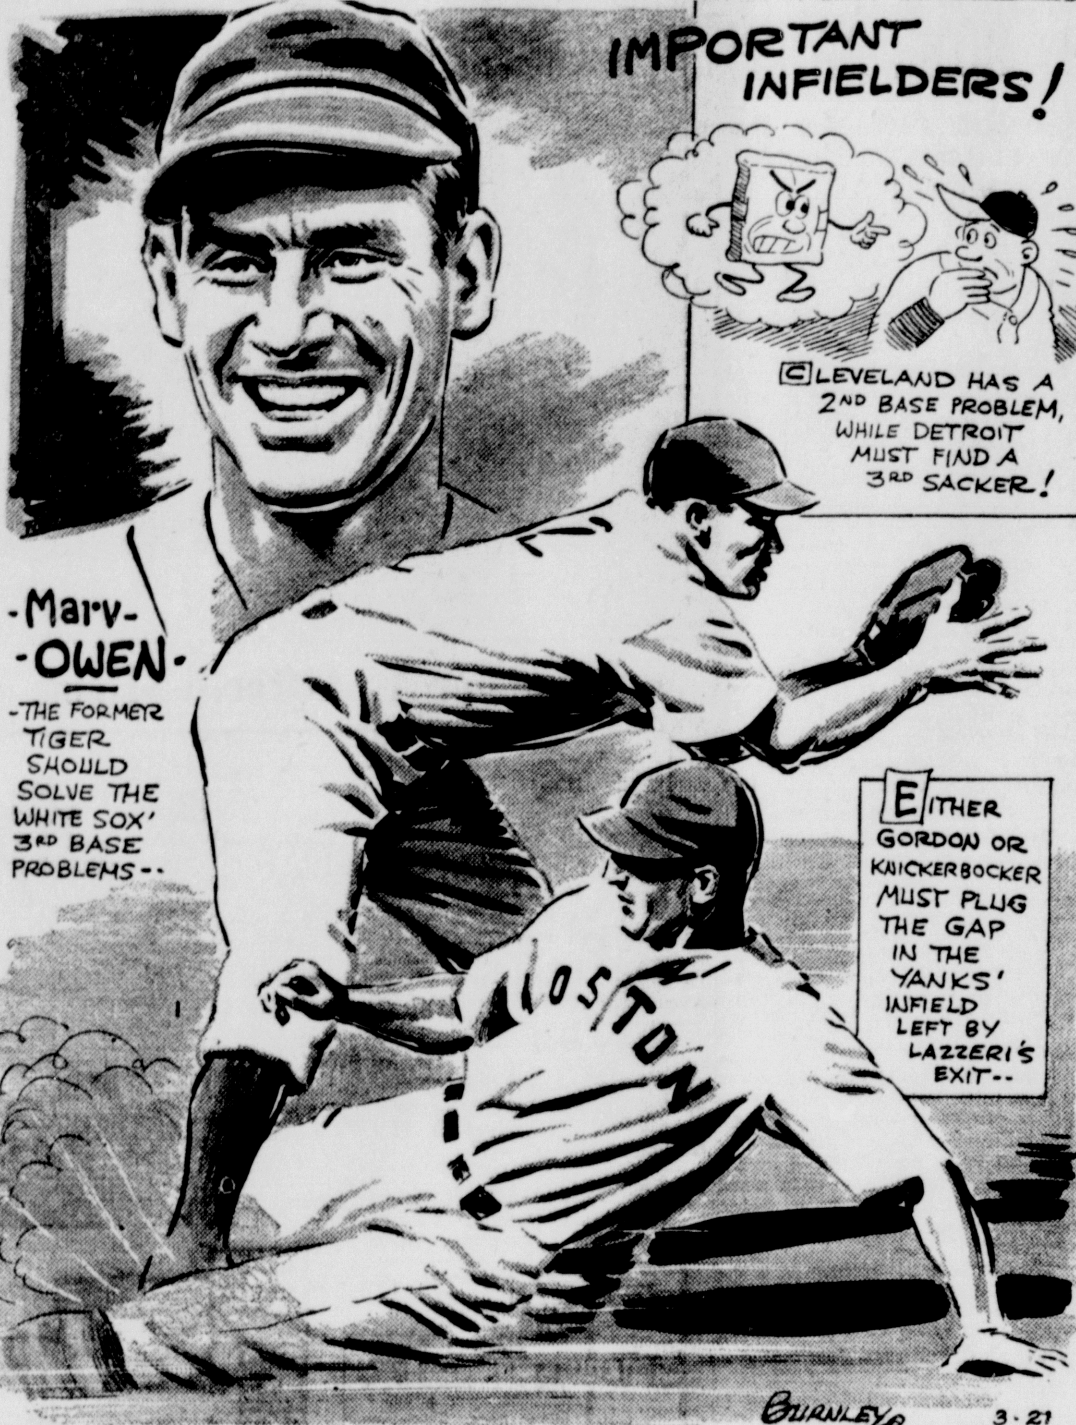

Whether the Cards are going to be a better club than last year when they finished a weak third, is difficult to say. There are too many "ifs," the principal one being, of course, Dizzy Dean. If Dizzy does return to the 25-game class, it goes without saying that the Red Birds will be flag contenders. If Dafy comes back they'll be in the World Series.

The plate is painfully weak behind the plate. An outstanding catcher, say men who are baseball wise, is an absolute essential of a championship team. Branch Rickey still is dicker with the Giants about Gus Mancuso. He can get Gus, all right, but the Giants want plenty in return. They mentioned Medwick and Rickey's still gassing.

GORDON IS NOT FULLY TESTED

New Yank Second Sacker Has Not Had Enough Fielding Yet

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—All that the New York Yankees have found out thus far about Joe Gordon, their new second-sacker, is that he is a pretty fair batsman. The shortstops, Frank Crosetti and Bill Knickerbocker, have been out of the lineup and Babe Dahlgren, the present incumbent, is not a shortstop. No one will know how good Gordon is until he plays regularly with the same shortstop.

LOS ANGELES.—Al Todd, husky Pittsburgh Pirate backstop, has his sights trained for national league fences. With five home runs notched on his big bat already, he's hopeful of getting a bumper crop of long-distance blows in the regular season.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Training camp observers say Clark Griffith has turned to the Cincinnati Reds in his quest for a catcher for the Washington Senators. Spud Davis and Gilly Campbell are most frequently mentioned in training camp gossip.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Hank Greenberg's goal for this year's campaign is the batting championship. Always a conscientious trainer, the Detroit Tigers' first sacker has been unusually diligent this season and no one has spent longer hours on the training field.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Billy Myers, Cincinnati Reds shortstop, has asked the club's braintrust to help him out of his batting slump. "I have switched bats, changed my stance, altered my swing and done everything but stand on my head but it hasn't helped any," says Billy.

Healey Takes AAU Honors Back Home

DENVER, March 21.—The Kansas City Healeys took the National A. U. basketball championship back to the cornbelt today.

The Kansas beat the Denver Safeways out of the title Saturday night in a 40-38 decision that left 7,000 spectators screaming in near-hysteria.

With 39 seconds to play, Ralph Bishop, Safeway forward, tied the score at 38-38.

Ten seconds later, Fred Pralle, Healey guard, dribbled across the corner of the court and whipped in a one-hander that earned the victory.

NEWARK TAKES OHIO CLASS A CAGE LAURELS

Canal Fulton Is Winner Of Class B Title In State Tourney

By FEITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, March 21.—Ohio's 32 classless high school basketball teams, their state tournament chores completed, were back in their home town classrooms today with Newark boasting the Class A championship and Canal Fulton of Stark county holding the Class B laurels.

Newark, winner of the crown in 1936, succeeded Hamilton as Class A ruler by beating New Philadelphia 28 to 27 in a thrilling final game, after New Philly had eliminated the defending champions in a semi-finals clash. Canal Fulton romped into the Class B title with a 42-21 win over Enoch of Clark county.

Robert (Buddy) Mercer of Newark, who weighs but 125 pounds, was the individual star of the tourney. He set a new tournament scoring record of 64 points in four contests, and got six of them in the last quarter of the final game, after Newark and New Philly had tied at 20-20.

The three-day classic drew 34,194 paying customers, breaking the record set last year by 8,861 and insuring the competing teams of a cash bonus. H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner, said the bonuses would be awarded according to the number of rounds the teams remained in the tournament.

While Newark held the Class A title, and New Philadelphia finished as runner-up, Massillon's great team which failed to reach the state meet had a claim to some kind of honor. The Massilloners were the only team to beat Newark and New Philadelphia during the season, the champs finishing with a record of 24 and one, and New Philadelphia with 22 and 3, the defeats prior to New Philly's Saturday loss to Newark being at the hands of Massillon.

Canal Fulton, after dropping its opening game, won 25 in 2. On their victory march through the state tournament the Fultoners halted the winning streak of the defending champion Upper Arlington at 31, and then wrecked Enoch's fine record which had reached 30 victories and one defeat.

The Class B individual scoring honors went to Alan Hobbs, Canal Fulton's lanky forward, who dropped 63 points through the hoop in four games. Paul Rueger of Enoch turned in the high single game with 24 points in the tournament opener.

The "sudden death" overtime ruling was not used during the tournament, not a game going into the extra period. Commissioner Townsend said that next year the "sudden death" ruling would not be effective, but that extra full periods would be played in case of tie games.

Louisville Youth Is Ping-Pong Winner

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21.—Owen Harper, 19, of Louisville, annexed his first title in winning the Kentucky state table tennis tournament here last night.

Harper eliminated top-seeded Calvin Fuhrman of Hamilton, O., in the quarter-finals, and ousted Joe Carter of Hamilton 21-18, 15-21, 19-21, 21-11 to seize the crown.

TIGERS, BROWNS CUBS SET PACE

Three Teams Leading In Grapefruit Circuit Among Majors

NEW YORK, March 21.—Grapefruit league, Citrus circuit or Lemon loop, whatever you call it, the annual spring scramble of the 16 big league ball clubs is underway with the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers setting the pace.

Each of the three teams has a spotless record, but there are extenuating circumstances. The Cubs have played only three times and the Tigers but once, while the Browns are enjoying the rare atmosphere of first place on the strength of four victories, three of them scored over Tulsa of the Texas league and one over a semi-pro outfit.

The New York Giants are second. They have won all but one of their eight games and have scored 76 runs, more than any other National league team. The Cincinnati Reds, morning glories of the southern circuit in 1937, are third with five victories and one defeat.

Trouble Spots in Spanish War

View of Barcelona

In one of the most disastrous air raids in European history, Spanish insurgent planes bombed the Loyalist capital, Barcelona, with many hundreds killed and at least 1,000 wounded. While the world recovered from the shock of the news of the terrific air bombing, a sore spot in the Mediterranean loomed larger and larger in European affairs. The trouble point is the Balearic islands, off the eastern coast of Spain. The islands are used by Italian warplanes and war craft fighting for the insurgents. France has revived the demand for joint action to neutralize the islands. When made previously, this proposal drew angry retorts from Premier Mussolini of Italy.
